

Andover-Harvard Theological Library

ATLA Religion Database

<http://nrs.harvard.edu/urn-3:hul.eresource:religind>

Use the ATLA Religion Database to locate journal articles, essays, and book reviews in the field of religion. Citations cover all religions and all theological points of view. Full-text is available for hundreds of titles.

If you do not find the exact information you need, try other indexes covering the study of religion. Some frequently consulted indexes include: RAMBI: The Index of Articles on Jewish Studies, Christian Periodical Index, Index Islamicus, Bibliography of Asian Studies, New Testament Abstracts, Old Testament Abstracts, and Catholic Periodical and Literature Index.

Accessing ATLA Religion Database

- Either click the URL at the top of this page, or go to the “Find E-Resources” section of the E-Research @ Harvard Libraries home page at <http://e-research.lib.harvard.edu>
- Be sure to login with your Harvard ID number and PIN. To obtain a PIN, go to <http://www.pin.harvard.edu>

Searching ATLA Religion Database

- Keyword Search

Enter search terms in one or more Find box. Boolean operators (And, Or, Not) can also be included in your search.

For more precise results, click a field code from the pull-down menu. For example, AU Fiorenza will find records that contain Fiorenza in the Author field.

- Publications Search

Click the Publications button on the blue toolbar near the top-left corner of the page.

Enter a journal title in the Browsing box, and click the browse button.

Mark the box next to the journal title(s) you seek and click Search.

The most recent articles will display at the top of your screen. Browsing current articles in key journals is one great way to increase your awareness of current scholarship.

- Scriptures

Click the Scriptures button on the blue toolbar.

Select a biblical book, or choose Expand for a more specific chapter and verse citation.

Print, Email, or Save Results

- Once you have completed a search, click the “add to folder” icon to add a specific citation to your folder.
- Click the folder to print, email, save, or export citations to RefWorks or EndNote.
- When you save, email, or export references, you may also include full-text articles.

Locating Full-Text Articles

- When you see either “HTML Full Text” or “PDF Full Text” below a citation, the article is only a click away.

- If there is no link, click this button:

Find It will locate the journal at Harvard, whether online or in print.

Locating Essays in Books

- Searches can retrieve chapters or essays from books, which may be available at a Harvard library.

- To locate the book that contains the essay or chapter, search for the Source in HOLLIS @

<http://discovery.lib.harvard.edu>

More Assistance?

Not finding what you need? The Research Services staff at the Andover-Harvard Theological Library will gladly assist you. Call us at 617-496-AHTL, send email to reference@hds.harvard.edu, or stop by the 2nd Floor of the Andover-Harvard Theological Library.

August 2009